Billowing Skirt Troubles Oueen

Hamilton, Ontario, July 2.

The Queen had trouble today with an unruly skirt, which billowed above her waist in full view of 15,000 people. The Queen took it in good part, apparently unconcerned by a burst of laughter from some of the crowd. She was reviewing the Argyl and Sutherland Highlanders of Canada at a colour treoping ceremony.

A strong wind cut across the parade group at the civic stadium and whipped at her skirt as she drove along the ranks in a jeep. Queen held a parasol against her side to keep the gidrt under control and when this did not work she kept her hands behind her back. Despite everything, the Queen seemed to be in a gay mood and correspondents, who have covered the tour since it began in Newfoundland two weeks ago today, said they had seldom seen her more relaxed and animated.

Busy Day She spent a busy day touring western Ontario including a visit to this major. Canadian steel centre, signing an his-toric Hible at Brantford and visiting the Stratford Shakespearian Festival. The Bible signed by the Queen -while the Duke of Edinburgh flew to London, Ontario -was presented by Queen Anne in 1712 for Majesty's Church of the

Suit Against Grant

Hollywood, July 2. British-born actor Cary Grant was sued for $500,000, damages for libel today in a suit filed in the superior court here by Joe Hynms, a syndicated newspaper column-

Hyams alleged he was libelled in a letter by Grant to the Los Angeles April 20 Times last which the actor "falsely denied he ever had an interview with Hyams in which he said he had undergone psychiatric treatment:"

In a series of articles by Hyams, Grant was quoted as saying he had been under such treatment in the past and was still undergoing it. Hyams, in his suit, said he met and talked with Grant in Florida last February and that the actor freely gave him the material used in the series.

Washington, July 2. Seven Congressmen today introduced resolutions in the House of Representatives seeking to block United States nuclear agreements with Britain and other North Atlantic Treaty nations.

agreements, most of which provide for transfer of nuclear technical information and non-nuclear parts of atomic weapons systems, are due to come into effect automatically by the middle of August unless vetoed by both the House and the Senate.

The pacts have been signed with Britain, France, West Germany, the Netherlands, Greece, Turkey and Canada. Sources on the joint congressional Atomic Energy Committee said they anticipated no difficulty with the agreements coming into effect, despite the resolutions introduced today,

The Congressmen who made the bid to block the agreements are all Democrais.

Inconsistent

One of them, Mr William H Meyer, of Vermont, said in a statement: "These agreements, entered into at a time when there are serious negotiation go-ing on both with respect to a nuclear test ban and the Berlin crisis, were inconsistent with our desire for a peaceful solution to existing problems.

"In addition, the USSR warned that any dissemination of nuclear know-how to other nations on our part would be followed by a similar dissemination by Russia to her satellite neighbours."

Of the agreements, the one with France is the most limited It provides only for the transfer of enriched uranium to be used by France in the development of a land-based prototype of a sub-

TTERE is hand No. 1 from the Intercollegiate Bridge Tournament.

East and West get their parby simply bldding four spades whether they make it or not. North and South get a par by either bidding five clubs and being set or by beating the four-spade contract.

Let's see how four spades can be made. South starts with three heart lends. East ruffs the third and knocks out the ace of spades. North is in and returns a club. East wins and runs off all his black cards. On the inst spade lead South is squeezed. He must discard his last heart or the king or queen of diamonds.

At this point dummy (West) is down to the ace-jack of dia-

How can North and South stop the squeeze? Easy! South can lead the king of diamonds at trick three or North can lead a dlamond when he is in with the ace of spades.

Actually the best defence is for South to shift to the eight of clubs at trick three whereupon North will know that East holds the ace and king of clubs and will lead the diamond when he gets in.
